11 STEPHAN BROOKS, et al.,) NO. CV 15-7724-JFW(E)
12 Plaintiff,)
13 v.) ORDER DISMISSING COMPLAINT
14 PACO-MICHELLE ATWOOD, et al.,) WITH LEAVE TO AMEND 15 Defendants.)
16

17
19

20 Plaintiff Stephan Brooks brings this action individually and as:
21 (1) alleged successor trustee to the Sireaner Townsend Revocable
22 Living Trust dated June 22, 2004 ("Trust"); (2) alleged sole
23 beneficiary of the Trust; (3) alleged sole heir of the Sireaner
24 Townsend Pour Over Will dated June 22, 2004; and (4) alleged heir to 25 the estate of Sherrell Atwood. Plaintiff's claims appear to arise out 26 of a family dispute concerning residential real property which 27 resulted in several state court lawsuits, including a probate case
28 concerning the Sherrell Atwood estate ("Estate Case"), a "Trust Case,"

1 a "Will Contest Case" and a "Partition Case." Plaintiff alleges that 2 Defendants conspired with state court judges to deprive Plaintiff of 3 the right to the property, which allegedly previously was owned
4 jointly by Plaintiff's mother, Sherrell Atwood, and grandmother,
5 Sireaner Townsend, both now deceased. Plaintiff purports to allege 6 federal civil rights claims and state law claims against:
7 (1) Plaintiff's sister Paco-Michelle Atwood, individually and as
8 alleged administrator of the estate of Sherrell Atwood;
9 (2) Chrisangela Walston, allegedly an attorney for Atwood in the 10 "Estate Case" and the "Partition Case"; (3) L'Tanya M. Butler,
11 allegedly an attorney for Atwood in the state court cases; (4) Maurice 12 Smith, Clifford Townsend, Jr. and Steven Townsend, the three 13 petitioners in the "Trust Case" and "Will Contest" cases; (5) Guy
14 Leemhuis, allegedly the attorney for Smith and the two Townsends;
15 (6) Jonnie Johnson Parker, allegedly the attorney for Plaintiff
16 individually and as alleged successor trustee in the "Trust Case"; and 17 (7) ten fictitious "Doe" Defendants.

18
19 On December 8, 2015, Defendants Atwood, Walston and Butler filed
20 a "Motion to Dismiss" pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6) of the Federal Rules
21 of Civil Procedure, accompanied by a Request for Judicial Notice. On 22 January 4, 2016, Plaintiff filed an "Application to Extend Time to 23 Serve Leemhuis, Smith, C. Townsend, Jr., S. Townsend, Parker and 24 Butler [sic]." On January 8, 2016, Plaintiff filed: (1) an 25 "Opposition to Atwood, Walston and Butler Motion to Dismiss"; and 26 (2) a Request for Judicial Notice.

SUMMARY OF PLAINTIFF'S ALLEGATIONS

Plaintiff alleges that various Defendants, supposedly in conspiracy with "Co-Conspirator" judges not named as Defendants, filed and pursued "sham" litigation by, among other things, allegedly:

1. filing the "Estate Case" assertedly with knowledge that Sherrell Atwood purportedly had no interest in the property and that Plaintiff allegedly was "the 2/3 heir of Sherrell Atwood";

2. doing nothing to advance the Estate Case;

3. perpetrating a fraud upon the court and obtaining a settlement by threat and coercion;

4. causing the property taxes to become delinquent;

5. filing the allegedly sham "Partition" case over a year after the "Estate Case" supposedly should have been dismissed, assertedly knowing that Maurice Smith allegedly was not an heir of Sireaner Townsend and that the court allegedly lacked jurisdiction;

6. seeking and obtaining eighty continuances over four years in the four cases and refusing to dismiss three of the cases after five years;

7. threatening Plaintiff in order to settle one or more of the state court cases;

1 8. executing a supposedly incorrect and invalid settlement
2 agreement; and

3
4 9. filing the "still open" "Will Contest Case" without intent to 5 pursue the case, allegedly knowing the case purportedly was baseless
6 and "would fail from the outset"

7
8 (see Complaint, pp. 22-31).
9

10 The "Co-conspirator" state court judges are: (1) Los Angeles
11 Superior Court Judges Mitchell L. Beckloff, David J. Cowan, Michael I.
12 Levanas and Maria E. Stratton; and (2) California Court of Appeal
13 Justices Norman L. Epstein, Audrey B. Collins and Thomas L. Willhite, 14 Jr. Plaintiff alleges that the Superior Court judges wrongfully 15 granted continuances in the state cases over a four-year period "at 16 the behest of Defendants," refused to decide jurisdictional motions to 17 dismiss, refused to dismiss cases "when mandatorily bound by five year
18 statutes," and refused to close and distribute the estate of Sherrell
19 Atwood "when bound to do so by statute" (id., p. 21). Plaintiff also 20 alleges that the Superior Court judges: (1) received "retroactive
21 immunity pursuant to SBX 2 11 from California criminal prosecution,
22 civil liability and disciplinary action for taking payments from LA
23 County while sitting as [judges] prior to July 1, 2008"; (2) received 24 allegedly illegal payments which they assertedly failed to disclose;
25 and (3) were biased because Los Angeles County assertedly would 26 benefit from increased tax revenue purportedly to be gained from a
27 court-ordered sale of the property (see Complaint, pp. 10-14).
28

28

1 Plaintiff alleges that Court of Appeal Justices Epstein and 2 Willhite: (1) received "retroactive immunity pursuant to SBX 2 11 from 3 California criminal prosecution, civil liability and disciplinary
4 action for taking payments from LA County while sitting as [Superior
5 Court judges] prior to July 1, 2008"; (2) received allegedly illegal
6 payments which they assertedly failed to disclose; and (3) failed to 7 disclose that Superior Court judges assertedly had engaged in fraud by 8 taking payments from Los Angeles County during the "Partition Case"
9 (id., pp. 15-17). Plaintiff alleges that the appellate justices:
10 (1) signed appellate opinions assertedly knowing that Paco-Michelle
11 Atwood supposedly did not contest that the Superior Court judges
12 allegedly had engaged in fraud by taking purportedly illegal payments
13 from the County; and (2) failed to address Plaintiff's challenges to 14 the Superior Court's jurisdiction (id., pp. 14-17). Justice Collins
15 allegedly violated the Code of Judicial Ethics by failing to disclose
16 that she had been a Los Angeles County district attorney and that,
17 during her tenure as Presiding Judge of this Court, she assertedly
18 allowed United States District Judges who were former Superior Court
19 Judges to receive the aforesaid "retroactive immunity" (id., pp. 15-20 16).

22 The Complaint pleads five claims for relief, styled "causes of 23 action." The First Cause of Action attempts to state a claim for 24 deprivation of due process under 42 U.S.C. section 1983. Defendants 25 allegedly: perverted and obstructed justice through delays, "fraud" on 26 the court and "bias"; took the property without due process; and 27 denied Plaintiff equal protection "by threats and intimidation" (id., 28 p. 32). The Second Cause of Action attempts to state a claim for

1 conspiracy to deprive Plaintiff of equal protection in alleged
2 violation of 42 U.S.C. section 1985(2). The Third Cause of Action
3 purportedly asserts a claim for declaratory and injunctive relief.
4 The Fourth and Fifth Causes of Action assert purported state law
5 claims for intentional and negligent infliction of emotional distress,
6 respectively.

7
8 Plaintiff seeks damages, the setting aside of Superior Court
9 order which determined ownership of the property and mandated the sale
10 of the property, and an injunction restraining Defendants from 11 engaging in any action to sell the property or to acquire or share any 12 proceeds from the sale of the property.

13
14 MOVING DEFENDANTS' CONTENTIONS

15
16 Defendants Atwood, Walston and Butler contend:

17
18 1. Defendants allegedly are not "state actors" within the 19 meaning of 42 U.S.C. section 1983;

20
21 2. The action allegedly is barred by the "Rooker-Feldman" 22 doctrine;¹ and

23
24 3. Plaintiff's claims allegedly are barred by principles of res
25 judicata and collateral estoppel.

26

REQUESTS FOR JUDICIAL NOTICE

The moving Defendants seek judicial notice of: (1) the Superior Court's "Order for Probate" filed on March 13, 2007, in Estate of Sherrell Atwood, Los Angeles Superior Court case number BP102484; (2) a complaint for partition, accounting and declaratory relief filed on April 12, 2013, in Atwood v. Brooks, Los Angeles Superior Court case number BC505725; (3) an "Order on Motion for Summary Adjudication" filed on September 16, 2014, in Atwood v. Brooks, Los Angeles Superior Court case number BC505725;² (4) the decision of the California Court of Appeal in Atwood v. Brooks, California Court of Appeal case number B258407;³ and (5) the "Interlocutory Judgment Re: Reimbursements and Attorneys Fees" filed on July 3, 2015, in Atwood v. Brooks, Los Angeles Superior Court case number BC505725.

Plaintiff seeks judicial notice of case summaries (dockets) for Estate of Sherrell Atwood, Los Angeles Superior Court case number BP102484, and Atwood v. Brooks, Los Angeles Superior Court case number BC505725.

² This Order ruled in favor of Paco-Michelle Atwood as Administrator of the Estate of Sherrell Atwood and mandated a partition by sale of the property.

³ This decision affirmed the September 16, 2014 summary adjudication by the Superior Court. See Atwood v. Brooks, 2015 WL 5029639 (Cal. App. Aug. 25, 2015). Among other things, the Court of Appeal rejected Plaintiff's arguments that Atwood delayed unreasonably in filing a probate action and that the Superior Court judges should have been disqualified because they purportedly received unauthorized employment benefits.

1 The Court grants the parties' requests for judicial notice. See
2 F. R. Evid. 201.

3
4 STANDARDS GOVERNING MOTION TO DISMISS

5
6 To survive a motion to dismiss under Rule 12(b)(6), "a complaint
7 must contain sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to state a
8 claim to relief that is plausible on its face." Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 9 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (citation and internal quotations omitted).
10 "A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual
11 content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that 12 the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged." Id.

13
14 The Court must accept as true all non-conclusory factual
15 allegations in the complaint and must construe the complaint in the 16 light most favorable to the plaintiff. Zucco Partners, LLC v.
17 Digimarc Corp., 552 F.3d 981, 989 (9th Cir. 2009). "Generally, a
18 court may not consider material beyond the complaint in ruling on a 19 Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) motion." Intri-Plex Technologies, Inc. v.
20 Crest Group, Inc., 499 F.3d 1048, 1052 (9th Cir. 2007) (citation and 21 footnote omitted). The Court may consider "only allegations contained 22 in the pleadings, exhibits attached to the complaint, and matters
23 properly subject to judicial notice." Akhtar v. Mesa, 698 F.3d 1202,
24 1212 (9th Cir. 2012) (citation omitted).

26 The Court may not dismiss a pro se complaint without leave to 27 amend unless "it is absolutely clear that the deficiencies of the 28 complaint could not be cured by amendment." Karim-Panahi v. Los

1 Angeles Police Dep't, 839 F.2d 621, 623 (9th Cir. 1988) (citations and
 2 quotations omitted); see also Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d 1122, 1130 (9th
 3 Cir. 2000) (en banc) (district court should grant leave to amend
 4 "unless it determines that the pleading could not possibly be cured by 5 the allegation of other facts") (citation and internal quotations
 6 omitted).

DISCUSSION

I. The Court Lacks Jurisdiction to Issue Orders Probating or Annulling a Will, Administering an Estate or Disposing of Property in the Custody of a State Probate Court.⁴

14 Under the "probate exception" to federal subject matter
 15 jurisdiction, a federal court lacks jurisdiction to probate or annul a 16 will, administer an estate or dispose of property in the custody of a
 17 state probate court. Marshall v. Marshall, 547 U.S. 293, 311-12
 18 (2006); see Harris v. Zion Sv. Bank & Trust Co., 317 U.S. 447, 450
 19 (1943) ("the settlement and distribution of decedents' estates and the 20 right to succeed to the ownership of realty and personalty are 21 peculiarly matters of state law"); Sutton v. English, 246 U.S. 199, 22 208 (1918) (federal court lacked jurisdiction over suit to annul a 23 will); Wisecarver v. Moore, 489 F.3d 747, 751 (6th Cir. 2007)
 24 (challenge to provisions of will barred by probate exception); In re
 25 Robert G. Wallace Trust v. Schaub, 2014 WL 5473544, at *5 (E.D. Cal.

27 ⁴ The Court may raise the issue of subject matter
 28 jurisdiction sua sponte. See WMX Technologies, Inc. v. Miller,
 104 F.3d 1133, 1135 (9th Cir. 1997) (en banc).

Oct. 23, 2014) (court lacked jurisdiction to determine validity of testamentary provision in trust); Morin v. Blevins, 2007 WL 4557108, at *3 (E.D. Cal. Dec. 21, 2007) (court lacked jurisdiction to construe trust instruments and to order accounting).⁵ Plaintiff's documents show that Estate of Sherrell Atwood remains pending and that a hearing on an order to show cause re final distribution is set for October 4, 2016. To the extent Plaintiff seeks to have this Court annul a will or issue orders regarding the disposition of property under the control of the state probate court, this Court lacks jurisdiction to grant such relief.

II. Plaintiff Has Failed to State a Claim Under Section 1983.

To state a claim under section 1983, a plaintiff must allege facts plausibly showing that a defendant acted under color of state law when doing the challenged acts. Parratt v. Taylor, 451 U.S. 527, 535 (1981) (section 1983), overruled on other grounds, Daniels v. Williams, 474 U.S. 327 (1986); Haygood v. Younger, 769 F.2d 1350, 1353 (9th Cir. 1985), cert. denied, 478 U.S. 1020 (1986) (section 1983); see generally Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 678. "[P]rivate parties are not generally acting under color of state law." Price v. State of Hawaii, 939 F.2d 702, 707-08 (9th Cir. 1991), cert. denied, 503 U.S. 938 (1992); see also Johnson v. Knowles, 113 F.3d 1114, 1118 (9th Cir.), cert. denied, 522 U.S. 996 (1997). The Court must "start with

⁵ In the Ninth Circuit, the probate exception applies in federal question cases as well as in diversity cases. See Marshall v. Marshall, 392 F.3d 1118, 1132 (9th Cir. 2004), rev'd on other grounds, 547 U.S. 293 (2006); see also Hassanati v. International Lease Fin. Corp., 51 F. Supp. 3d 887, 895 (C.D. Cal. 2014).

1 the presumption that private conduct does not constitute governmental
2 action." See Sutton v. Providence St. Joseph Medical Center, 192 F.3d
3 826, 835 (9th Cir. 1999) (citation omitted). To avoid dismissal,
4 Plaintiff must have pleaded facts sufficient to raise a reasonable
5 inference that Defendants were state actors. See Caviness v. Horizon
6 Community Learning Center, Inc., 590 F.3d 806, 808, 818 (9th Cir.
7 2010).

8
9 The Ninth Circuit generally employs four tests in determining 10 when a private party's actions amount to state action: (1) the public
11 function test; (2) the state compulsion test; (3) the government nexus
12 test; and (4) the joint action test. See Kirtley v. Rainey, 326 F.3d
13 1088, 1092 (9th Cir. 2003); Johnson v. Knowles, 113 F.3d at 1118; see 14 generally Brentwood Academy v. Tennessee Secondary School Athletic 15 Ass'n, 531 U.S. 288, 295-96 (2001); Lugar v. Edmondson Oil Co., 457
16 U.S. 922, 937-939 (1982). The "public function" and "joint action"
17 tests "largely subsume the state compulsion and governmental nexus 18 tests because they address the degree to which the state is 19 intertwined with the private actor or action." Naoko Ohno v. Yuko
20 Yasuma, 723 F.3d 984, 995 n.13 (9th Cir. 2013).

21
22 A. Public Function Test

23
24 Under the public function test, state action may be present if a
25 private party or entity exercises powers traditionally reserved
26 exclusively to the state. See Rendell-Baker v. Kohn, 457 U.S. 830 27 (1982) ("the question is whether the function performed has been 28 'traditionally the exclusive prerogative of the State'"; original

1 emphasis; citation omitted); Kirtley v. Rainey, 326 F.3d at 1093 ("The 2 public function test is satisfied only on a showing that the function
3 at issue is 'both traditionally and exclusively governmental'")
4 (citation omitted). Defendants' alleged actions with respect to the 5 prosecution of probate proceedings and estate-related litigation
6 concerning real property do not encompass the exercise of powers
7 traditionally reserved exclusively to the state. See Naoko Ohno v.
8 Yuko Yasuma, 723 F.3d at 996 (litigant's use of state statute to 9 attempt to enforce foreign judgment in California did not satisfy the 10 "public function" test; "[a]lthough the court assuredly performs a 11 public purpose, a private individual seeking a remedy from a court is 12 seeking gain for him or herself, a purely private act").

13
14 B. State Compulsion Test

15
16 State action may be found under the state compulsion test where 17 the state has "exercised coercive power or has provided such 18 significant encouragement, either overt or covert, that the [private 19 actor's] choice must in law be deemed to be that of the state." Blum 20 v. Yaretsky, 457 U.S. 991, 1004 (1982); Kirtley v. Rainey, 326 F.3d at 21 1094 ("The compulsion test considers whether the coercive influence or 22 'significant encouragement' of the state effectively converts a 23 private action into a government action. [citation]."). However, 24 "[m]ere approval of or acquiescence in the initiatives of a private 25 party is not sufficient to justify holding the State responsible for 26 those initiatives." Blum v. Yaretsky, 457 U.S. at 1004-05; see 27 Johnson v. Knowles, 113 F.3d at 1119-20 (where state law did not 28 compel or encourage allegedly discriminatory removal of political

1 party committee members, state law authorization to remove members for 2 legitimate reasons "cannot convert the Committee's alleged
3 discriminatory removal into state action").

4
5 In the Complaint, Plaintiff alleges, at most, the "private 6 misuse" of state law, which is not action attributable to the state.
7 See Seattle Fishing Servs. LLC v. Bergen Industries and Fishing Co., 8 242 Fed. App'x 436, 438 (9th Cir. 2007) (obtaining writs of 9 garnishment from court clerk did not render private parties state
10 actors; citing Lugar v. Edmondson Oil Co., 457 U.S. at 941).

11
12 C. Government Nexus Test

13
14 Under the government nexus test, a court must consider whether 15 there is a sufficiently close nexus between the state and the 16 challenged actions such that the defendants' actions may "be fairly 17 treated as [those] of the State itself." Johnson v. Knowles, 113 F.3d
18 at 1120 (citation and internal quotations omitted). The court may 19 consider whether state actors dominated decision making, whether the 20 private party's funds were supplied by state institutions, and whether 21 the private party is acting in lieu of a traditional state actor. See 22 Villegas v. Gilroy Garlic Festival Ass'n, 541 F.3d 950, 955 (9th Cir.
23 2008) (en banc); see also Brentwood Academy v. Tennessee Secondary 24 School Athletic Ass'n, 531 U.S. at 298-303 (organization which 25 regulated interscholastic sports among public and private high schools 26 was a state actor; public schools accounted for 84% of membership,
27 organization was "overwhelmingly composed of public officials" acting
28 in their official capacities, state board of education members served

1 on organization's board of control and legislative counsel, and 2 organization's ministerial employees were eligible for membership in 3 state retirement system).

4
5 As indicated above, the conducting of state court litigation does
6 not render the litigants state actors. An action "between private 7 parties does not involve state action simply because the court in 8 which the case is pursued is an organ of the state or federal 9 government." Naoko Ohno v. Yuko Yasuma, 723 F.3d at 996. Plaintiff
10 fails to allege any facts plausibly showing that the asserted actions
11 of Defendants in connection with estate, trust, partition, and/or will 12 contest litigation among private parties may fairly be treated as 13 actions of the state under the government nexus test. Nor does the 14 allegation that the state court appointed Atwood as personal
15 representative suffice. See Witte v. Young, 2015 WL 5232681, at *4 16 (E.D. Cal. Sept. 8, 2015) (court-appointed personal representative of 17 estate is not a state actor for purposes of section 1983, citing
18 cases); see generally Polk County v. Dodson, 454 U.S. 312 (1981) 19 (court-appointed public defender does not act under color of law in 20 performing function as criminal defense counsel).

21
22 D. Joint Action Test

23
24 The joint action test focuses on "whether the state has so far
25 insinuated itself into a position of interdependence with the private 26 entity that it must be recognized as a joint participant in the 27 challenged activity." Kirtley v. Rainey, 326 F.3d at 1093 (citation 28 and internal quotations omitted). "The lynchpin of a finding of

1 'joint action' is the existence of 'a substantial degree of
2 cooperative action.'" Villegas v. Gilroy Garlic Festival Ass'n, 541
3 F.3d at 960 (citation omitted). "Thus, the joint action test will be 4 satisfied when the actions of the state and the private party are 5 intertwined or the parties have a symbiotic relationship." Id.
6 (citation omitted).

7
8 The joint action test is satisfied when a plaintiff plausibly
9 shows an agreement or conspiracy between a government actor and a 10 private party. Id. (citations omitted). "To be liable as a co-
11 conspirator, a private defendant must share with the public entity the 12 goal of violating a plaintiff's constitutional rights." Franklin v.
13 Fox, 312 F.3d 423, 445 (9th Cir. 2002) (citations omitted).
14 "Establishing liability for a conspiracy between a private actor and a 15 state actor is no different from establishing liability for a
16 conspiracy between two state actors." Crowe v. County of San Diego, 17 608 F.3d 406, 440 (9th Cir. 2010), cert. denied, 562 U.S. 1135 (2011).
18 "The plaintiff must show an agreement or meeting of the minds to 19 violate constitutional rights, and to be liable, each participant in 20 the conspiracy need not know the exact details of the plan, but each 21 participant must at least share the common objective of the 22 conspiracy." Id. (citation, internal quotation and brackets omitted).
23 Conclusory allegations of conspiracy with a state actor are 24 insufficient. Simmons v. Sacramento County Superior Court, 318 F.3d
25 1156, 1161 (9th Cir. 2003).

26 ///

27 ///

28 "Merely resorting to the courts and being on the winning side of

1 a lawsuit does not make a party a co-conspirator . . . with the
2 judge." Naoko Ohno v. Yuko Yasuma, 723 F.3d 984 at 996 (quoting
3 Dennis v. Sparks, 449 U.S. 24, 28 (1980); internal quotations omitted)
4 (litigant's use of state statute to attempt to enforce foreign 5 judgment in California did not satisfy the "joint action" test); see
6 also Witte v. Young, 2015 WL 5232681, at *4 (allegations that probate 7 court encouraged defendants to file a vexatious litigant motion and 8 entertained defendants' law and motion matters insufficient).
9 Although Plaintiff appears to allege that judges and appellate
10 justices acquiesced in the alleged wrongdoing of the private party
11 Defendants, "[a]ction taken by private entities with the mere approval
12 or acquiescence of the State is not state action." American Mfrs.
13 Mut. Ins. Co. v. Sullivan, 526 U.S. 40, 52 (1999) (citations omitted);
14 see also Schucker v. Rockwood, 846 F.2d 1202, 1204-05 (9th Cir.), 15 cert. denied, 488 U.S. 995 (1988) (judge's acceptance of defendants'
16 arguments in state court litigation and issuance of orders favorable
17 to defendants did not make the judge a conspirator rendering
18 defendants state actors). Plaintiff's allegations that the judges
19 supposedly were biased in favor of the County also do not suffice.
20 See Fine v. Sheriff of Los Angeles County, 356 Fed. App'x 998, 999
21 (9th Cir. 2009), cert. denied, 560 U.S. 927 (2010) (allegation that 22 judge received employment benefits from the county insufficient to 23 show judicial bias; judge's receipt of benefits "did not give him a 24 direct personal, substantial pecuniary interest in the matter or so
25 personally embroil[] the judge that he could not preside impartially")
26 (citations and internal quotations omitted). Plaintiff's conclusory
27 allegations that the Defendants purportedly acted in concert with 28 state judicial officers are insufficient to state any claim that

1 Defendants acted under color of law. See Simmons v. Sacramento County
2 Superior Court, 318 F.3d at 1161; see generally Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556
3 U.S. at 678.

4
5 The foregoing discussion applies equally to the non-moving
6 Defendants, all of whom are private parties who have not yet appeared
7 in this action. See Silverton v. Dep't of the Treasury, 644 F.2d
8 1341, 1345 (9th Cir.), cert. denied, 454 U.S. 895 (1981) (sua sponte
9 dismissal of action as against nonappearing defendant appropriate
10 where that defendant was "in a position similar to that of moving
11 defendants or where claims against such defendants are integrally 12 related").

13
14 In sum, Plaintiff has failed to state a claim that any Defendant
15 was acting under color of law while engaging in the alleged 16 wrongdoing. Hence, Plaintiff has failed to state a claim under 17 section 1983 as to any Defendant.

18
19 III. Plaintiff Has Failed to State a Claim Under Section 1985(2).

20
21 To state a claim under 42 U.S.C. section 1985(2), a plaintiff
22 must allege facts plausibly showing a conspiracy motivated by 23 class-based, invidious animus. See Portman v. County of Santa Clara,
24 995 F.2d 898, 909 (9th Cir. 1993); see generally Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 25 556 U.S. at 678. Plaintiff alleges no facts plausibly showing any 26 such conspiracy.

ORDER

For the foregoing reasons, the Complaint is dismissed with leave to amend. Given the Complaint's failure to state any federal claim that might furnish a basis for this Court's jurisdiction, the Court declines to rule on the other issues raised in Defendants' Motion to Dismiss. Plaintiff's application for an extension of time to serve unserved Defendants is denied without prejudice for the same reason.

If Plaintiff still wishes to pursue this action, he is granted thirty (30) days from the date of this Order within which to file a First Amended Complaint. The First Amended Complaint shall be complete in itself. It shall not refer in any manner to the Complaint. Failure to file timely a First Amended Complaint may result in the dismissal of this action. See Pagtalunan v. Galaza, 291 F.3d 639, 642-43 (9th Cir. 2002), cert. denied, 538 U.S. 909 (2003) (court may dismiss action for failure to follow court order); Simon v. Value Behavioral Health, Inc., 208 F.3d 1073, 1084 (9th Cir.), amended, 234 F.3d 428 (9th Cir. 2000), cert. denied, 531 U.S. 1104 (2001), overruled on other grounds, Odom v. Microsoft Corp., 486 F.3d 541 (9th Cir.), cert. denied, 552 U.S. 985 (2007) (affirming dismissal without leave to amend where plaintiff failed to correct deficiencies in complaint, where court had afforded plaintiff opportunities to do so, and where court had given plaintiff notice of the substantive
